Year 4

The spindly, frail, decrepit, old man cleared his throat and began to read the letter. Dear lucky finder, you have been chosen to come to a place where we cover it in chocolate and a miracle or two, who can take a rainbow. You will have a chance to taste a thunder late mellow bar which will make your tongue zap for days. A unicorn cloud will make your last as soft as a cloud. The melicious-scream-diddly-umbles ber will make your tongue watery for years. Brilliant description! I am preparing other surprises that are even more mystical and more astonishing for all my wonderful golden ticket holders - amazing and interesting, wild and out of this world.

English

I can write my persuasive piece of writing.

I am writing to you because our oxygen supplies are being destroyed. Unless we act now, we may face harsh climate changes and it even might be impossible to live on planet Earth in the near future.

I am sure you are aware that all rainforests produce 40% of the planet's oxygen. In fact, the Amazon rainforest (the largest rainforest) produces half of all South America's oxygen. If the rainforests are destroyed, we will be destroyed too.

As I am sure you are aware, rainforests prevent the Earth becoming too hot to live on. Trees draw down carbon dioxide from the atmosphere through photosynthesis, locking away that greenhouse gas in leaves, trunks, roots and nearby soil therefore regulating the climate of

Enchantment Land

I can write a description of a theme park using a range of sentence openers.

As the moon rises, the dark-filled sky brightens up with colorful, bright lights. The place is alive with booming music, big screams, delicious food stalls and the massive rollercoaster.

Like a long shipping rope, the rides twist and turn through the fair. Numb and shocked, children race over to the Ghost train. A terrified teenager waits through the massive queue for the Ferris wheel. He takes chocolate from a fresh box, the person disappeared to go on the Waltzer. The girl spins back and forth. Quickly, the adults booked the tickets.

The air smelled of candy floss, popcorn and French fries. The food stalls sold apple, ice cream, sweets, etc.

Wow! A fantastic description Poppy! You have made the theme park come alive. Excellent use of sentence openers. (3/10)

Rainforest shelters

Reckless rainforests. Quite a lot of atmospheres have hard challenges such as the wild rainforests. Exposure to extreme warmth can lead to lethargy, lack of energy, extremely tired. How to do the Trapeze.

At PGL, there are many fun activities. There are some high up and some low down. Trapeze, which is very fun and scary, is a high up activity. So buckle your harness and get going.

Then ~~the~~, the instructor will say, "climb when ready", and you will say, "climbing", and then you can start when ready. As you climb, others will pull the rope to make the rope ^{secure}. When climbing, keep a tight grip on the staples (at the bottom

Pupil Voice

I like writing and I write stories at home. When I am sad, I write about how I feel.

I think writing is fun especially when I write about myself. It helps me to get better with my pen skills.

I enjoy watching a film and writing about that. I would like a free writing session every week.

As a writer, you can make your own choices about the characters and what they do. I like that.

I enjoyed writing my own book and I created the pictures too. I like using my imagination.
